- Jagdish Bhagwati, described Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) as the investments that is made by Multi National Companies (MNC) in order to skip the protectionist measures that is taken by home country.
- Many countries use protectionist barriers to prevent job losses and protect home industry from competition which is stemmed from cheap imported goods. Companies can get rid of this protectionist barrier by opening a new branch in home country.
- Hence, tariff rates couldn't serve as a protection alone to domestic entrepreneur (either it is private or State Own Enterprise), we should also consider that restrict foreign direct investment directly.
